

6: Overload

By: J.D. Carter

Word Count: 3.800

Status: First Draft

Content: Slice of Life, High School, American, Anthro, Cat, Mouse, Drama, Tragedy, Anxiety, Depression, Self-Loathing, Self-Doubt, Negative Self-talk, Domination, Submission, Exhibitionism, Marking, Hair Pulling, Oral Sex

Main Characters: Terra Kelly, Kadelya Shadow

Terra

“CAFFEINE!”

Kadelya stopped licking. She stopped nuzzling. Slowly, she even stopped bppurring. After the vibrator had stopped, Terra pulled her legs away and rolled over, scurrying to the ladder and quickly dropping down the hole. She didn't stop. She ran into the bathroom. Slammed the door. Locked it.

What was she thinking? It was too early to fuck an unconditioned slave? But Kadelya wanted it. She'd offered it. She'd almost begged for it.

“Make me happy to be at your heel.”

No, she was getting played. Played by the extremely clever and manipulative Pollyanna to think someone could want her, could care for her without any obligation. But Kadelya was fucked up too! What she'd said about her parents, walking in on that was more fucked up than anything Terra ever thought of doing! Maybe Kadelya didn't mind casual sex, but Terra didn't understand the meaning of “casual” in anything but her clothing preference.

She wasn't a casual hypnosis enthusiast, she was obsessed with making tools to let her hypnotize people and control them against their will. And she was so close that she should just ask Kadelya to try one of them out, then use that to get over this fucking panic attack.

Panic attack.

Right. Anxiety. She hated everybody. Including herself. Oh, the school counselor had tried to help her with her anxiety. But in the end, the help had led to a referral to clinical therapist, and a prescription for stupid pulls that made Terra feel like she wasn't herself. Better an anxious wreck of herself than some phony.

But that anxiety had hit at the worst fucking possible time. She reached down and felt the wetness that still wanted to be brought to fruition, and she closed her eyes. Pathetic little rodent, what kind of lame dommie are you that you panic over creaming on your own slave's face? Your tits are too small for anybody to love them! You're fat and ugly and anybody who would say otherwise has worse eyesight than you do!

And she was rubbing herself to the negative self-talk. It was miserable, but it made her hot, it made her squirm. She was just a fucking mose, a scavenger in a predatory world, and while she dreamed of being the superior, the dominant, the alpha, she was just a fucking girlcuck omega dweeb who would never get her shit together and finish anything.

She felt her breathing quickening. Quickening more. Faster. Shorter. She felt herself chocking and looking around, reach for her inhaler, but she'd left it upstairs like the fucking dumb shit cunt she was and now she was going to die of an asthma attack in her own fucking bathroom unless a backup was in the medical cabinet she'd only just fucking remembered.

There was. She pulled it out and pulled off the cap, hands shaking, shove it to her muzzle and pumped. One hit. She felt the drugs in it opening up her airway. Not instantly, but gradually, she could breathe slower. Deeper. Healthier.

What had she been thinking, inviting Kadelya to her house for what felt more like a date than part of her plot. Why hadn't she built up her control more over the week since they'd first met in the lecture hall? Why was she messing up her own plan for revenge on Tessa?

Tessa? She hadn't gone by Tessa for a few years. It was a simple enough change, too. Everybody knew her first name was Kadelya. What year had it been, though?

Not 7th grade. Tessa had just not been there for the opening ceremony. She came back at the start of October, and she was still going by Tessa then. Not 8th grade. Was it 9th? Or 10th? It had definitely been for their whole three years of high school.

And why was she obsessing over Kadelya or Tessa or whatever? Revenge? Or was there something else to it? She walked into the shower and closed the sliding door on it. Then curled up in the back corner, emergency inhaler still in hand, and as she hit the floor she realized she was still bottomless. Well, it was her fucking house. But she was also still wet. Oh, the asthma attack and anxiety attack had both taken their toll on her arousal, but it wasn't gone yet.

Tessa... had been so friendly back then. If Terra had wanted friends, maybe she'd have seen Tessa as one. Hell, their names were really similar. During fifth grade she remembered hearing some of the kids being even more juvenile than they should be at 10 going 11. "Terra and Tessa sitting in a tree," taunts because they were both in the advancement exam prep class after their regular courses were done.

Kids were cruel. They were bullies.

But had a part of Terra thought that maybe it could be true? That she could have something good, a friend as smart as her?

Maybe, she thought. Maybe I did want a friend. California isn't like Michigan. We never get snow here in the winter. It gets cold, but never it almost never freezes. I miss winters. The snow on the mountain field trips isn't the same.

But Niemen was the school to be in to prep for a technical career. It's why she had chosen to stay.

Or was it? She'd told herself it was for Niemen, but it was 8th grade when her parents had offered to bring her back to Michigan. She could have found a technical high school in Michigan. There was that City High School, or the county technical education center. But she'd chose California. She's chosen Niemen Tech.

Head she been trying to choose...

No. That was absurd. She was choosing her skills, not some stupid cut catgirl whom she'd once thought could maybe be her friend. And not just because Tessa had ignored her after they both passed the exam. Not just because Tessa had run off to Japan for the first half of their 7th grade year. Not just because She clearly had a thing with the new transfer girl, Brown, when she came back.

Terra froze. She'd just thought about Tessa. Kadelya. Whichever. She'd thought about her as... special. Important. Important enough to feel jealous. Because she had been jealous of Brown. Counselor would have a field day with this fucking revelation.

And now here she was, plotting to hypnotize Kadelya into her slace. Plotting to get Kadelya to make Brown her slave too. Some kind of hot, twisted revenge on both of them for hurting... yes, for hurting her six years ago. Five and half, whatever. Her pussy was still hot and wet. She still did want this revenge. And the thought of it turned her on.

But it was coming too easy. Wasn't that a good thing, though?

Losers like us don't get to have good things happen, her negative thoughts insisted. Not easily. Not like this. She wanted to push the thoughts away, but engaging them only made them stronger. We can't enjoy ourselves until you know the princess is broken.

But she had been. Kadelya was broken. And not by Terra. And maybe she coped with it, but what Terra saw earlier told her better.

A very quiet part of her tried to ask if they could just be broken together.

The rest of her, consumed with negative self talk and anxiety and depression and antisocialism and paranoia said: No. She has to be more broken than me so I can own her. Control her. Keep her from betraying me again like she did back then.

She wasn't even thinking about the fact that her free hand was rubbing herself until she felt the writing, clenching, tensing muscles start to activate. She didn't care anymore. She just wanted to cum, and didn't want to worry about impressing or disappointing her victim upstairs. She'd finish these and then go drop the bitch so she could get work on breaking her.

Kadelya

Kadelya wanted to chase after Terra. But with how frightened, how panicked she had looks, and she'd used the safeword. Twice now. In only a few hours. Had it even been an hour? Regardless, she couldn't follow yet.

What was she doing wrong to push Terra to stop playing with her so suddenly? Okay, the first time was obvious. More information than was necessary. Kadelya couldn't help it. Not easily. She had a tendency to overshare in an attempt to build connections. That was how Mister Pigeon had put it. Terra had asked the most fucked up thing and Kadelya had started spilling a variety of fucked up things about her life.

But they had cuddled. Sort of. She had made it past that hiccup and put on a dance, a show, for mistress... and it had gone so well. She'd shown off how much she enjoyed dancing, making mistress feel good. She'd shown her she wanted to have a mistress, to be a slave. Was it too much? But Terra had made her a slave days ago!

She walked over to her luggage and picked up her purse. She paused and looked down the ladder too, but she needed a moment to process what was going on herself. She grabbed a smooth crystalline orb out of her purse and held it close to her face. It glowed like a campfire. She squeezed the orb lightly and felt the energy pour out of it as the brilliant orange chicken materialized. It stood up to her shoulders, and had fierce eyes and looked around her, as if expecting a fight.

Galliferno. Her first monster, the one she had tamed in Japan six years ago. She just wrapped her arms around it, hugging it and feeling its warmth. It responded in kind, holding her in its wings.

Impulse control. That's what Mister Pigeon had called it. Well, he'd said impulse control was one of the executive functions. One that she seemed to struggle with a lot, even with medication. Not that the medication always worked, because Andurians, even with a human father, didn't have the same biochemistry as humans, so her ADHD was only minimally responsive to medication at all.

Maybe she should tell Terra about that? When Terra was ready, obviously. Right now, she just needed some comfort, comfort she could always find with Galliferno. She walked the giant fire-element chicken to the futon and indicated for it to sit. When it did, she looked around. Should she put any of her clothes back on? It didn't seem necessary, not unless Terra wanted her to. and right now, Terra wasn't here to express what she wanted. At that thought, Kadelya eyed the top of the ladder again.

Terra needed time for herself right now. She probably wouldn't go in to hurt herself.

Kadelya thought about grabbing her phone. No. Tonight was for her and Terra. Until Terra said otherwise, she didn't want to turn her focus away from this new thing with Terra. This chance to have a mistress of her own, if she could rein herself in enough to not scare her off.

So she got back on the futon and snuggled up with Galliferno. Trying to think about what she had done wrong this time. The music Terra had started kept playing. Clubbish and nerd songs, parodies, covers.

It had all been easy with Sophie. Sophie had been in Japan too. Admittedly, more as a weeb than a monster tamer, but once they started traveling together, Sophie had caught a few monsters. They'd been so close during that summer that Sophie had begged her mom to get her a study abroad permit for Alabaster. Then they'd gotten closer as students together. And Sophie had extended her studies abroad until now they were about to graduate together.

Sophie was anime-brained and porn-brained, but in all the cutest and most fun ways. Kadelya tried to convince herself that she wasn't just the same, but she'd honestly fallen for her cute subby vixen because she knew that for whatever differences they had, they were way more similar. "All I want to do when I grow up is make as many people feel good as I can," was how Sophie liked to justify her joint ambitions of being a doctor and a porn star.

It was weird, too. Kadelya had grown up watching shoujo anime. She'd played out some of the stories too. Fuu and Ferio. Utena and Anthy. Nagisa and Honoka (no matter what anybody said, she shipped them). She'd seen herself in relationships with boys and girls, but she honestly did like girls more. And she usually saw herself as the more active, more tomboyish girl in most cases. She liked standing up and pursuing her dreams, her interests, her crushes.

But with Terra, she felt like the softer, weaker, more passive partners. And in darker ships. She felt like Jasmine to the evil sorcerer Jafar. Dark Lady. June to Lou Garou. And Terra felt like the predator here, even though...

Even though Terra was a mouse, and Kadelya a cat, she felt like prey and she wanted Terra to toy with her as much as she wanted to submit and serve the mouse. It was strange, but it was natural. She hadn't imagined anybody else in the school was into hypnosis like she and Sophie were. Their respective boyfriends had both gotten into it through them. When Terra made her predatory intentions clear using a rapid induction... A part of Kadelya had been thrilled at this common ground. In the instant she was crashing into a trance, then she just followed along...

She nuzzled against Galliferno, the monster calmly napping so its body felt like a space heater or heated blanket. She purred into her good friend's body, sniffing the well groomed feathers. She may not battle much anymore, but she loved Galliferno for company. Snuggling with it on cool rainy nights just felt so cozy. And yet, her eyes were still drawn to the ladder.

She should give Terra time to herself. But she had to follow. She had to offer aftercare. The scene might be done, but... was the sleepover just an excuse for a scene? Was Terra only interested in controlling Kadelya, not in actually getting to know her?

She patted Galliferno's wattle softly and pushed herself up. As she looked to the ladder, she saw round ears and brown hair rising up from it, and smiled softly. When Terra turned around, though, she noticed her mistress' expression changing as she looked towards Kadelya. She was confused and shocked.

Terra & Kadelya

"What the fuck is that thing!?" Terra pointed at the brilliant flame-orange feathered giant chicken on her futon. This was not something that belonged in her house, it belonged in hecking barn!

Galliferno clucked and turned its head to the new voice. Its tamer was standing nearby, and only another person was present. It had no reason to fear combat.

"Mistress!" Kadelya held her hands out as if to protect Galliferno. She was happy to see Mistress back, but upset at the mouse's reaction to her pet. "Th-this is my pet! My monster, I promise it's tame! It won't damage anything!"

"Your pet!?" Terra screeched. "What kind of pets is a five fucking foot tall chicken?"

"It's a monster, a Galliferno! I tamed him when I was 12!" Tessa moved her body between the giant fowl and her mistress. "I... I always have him around to snuggle with. And I groom him weekly."

"Monster? When you were twelve? What the heck are you talking about, Shadow?"

"Monster taming leagues in Japan," Tessa said. "I was a tournament runner up. In seventh grade, when I was gone for six months, I was... I was training monsters there."

"Japan?" Terra wracked her memory. Of course, Tessa had been gone for six months in seventh grade, but she had never known that was because Tessa was a monster otaku. "Galli... ferno... Wait! You're a monster geek!?"

"Tamer," Kadelya said, blushing. "Though, I guess most of us tamers are kind of monster geeks too... yeah. So..."

“You... you ditched me here to go play monster tamer?” Terra spat the words out and started walking slowly towards the catgirl and her emergency rations. The monstrous chicken just blinked without any expression she could read.

“D-Ditched you?” Kadelya’s eyes dilated. “I’d been planning that trip for two whole years, studying Japanese, learning a whole language and proper care for monsters, and camping skills, and the advancement exam! I didn’t do it to ditch you, mistress!”

“I thought I’d have someone who could keep up with me,” Terra hissed. “And then you were gone by the first day of classes. And you came back with a new friend who seemed to take up all your time!”

Kadelya stood frozen as Terra approached. “I... I didn’t know you wanted to be my friend! I’m sorry I didn’t notice it! I can probably never apologize enough to...”

Kadelya froze as she felt her left ass cheek gripped, and Terra’s nose pressed against hers at an angle. She could barely process the rest of what was happening, her right breast just felt like it was being squeezed and her muzzle opened by reflex at the feeling on tongue against her lips.

Terra didn’t know what had come over her. But she was claiming that Kadelya offered her earlier. She kissed the cat, holding her and groping her like a collection of produce in the grocery store. Like a silicon doll. Like a thing she could do whatever she wanted with. Her tongue forced its way into the cat’s mouth, and pressed against the rough, sandpapery texture of Kadelya’s.

This absolute dork and nerd and geek and clueless dweeb was hers now. She could feel the shock melting away from her project’s muscles, and leaving her body pliable to posing. Letting up on her groping, she grabbed each wrist of her property, pushing them behind the catgirl, bedding them to fold behind her back.

The kiss broke and Terra growled. “I’m not sure I could make you any bigger of a dweeby dorky geeky nerd than you already are,” she said with a smirk. “But I can make you show the whole school who you really are now. And... You said I can do anything, right? Like make it turn you on to be exposed for all of your lame interests that you hide to look popular?”

Kadelya nodded slowly. “Yes mistress... are you sure you’re...”

“We’re going to fuck in front of your pet chicken. I’m going to make it watch me push you down to your knees,” Terra said, using her right hand on Kadelya’s left shoulder to push her down. It wasn’t strong enough to really force her, except that the catgirl wanted to give in. Terra felt the power of knowing that she could do this just by telling Kadelya what she wanted the cat to do. “I’m going to make it watch you lick me out, and this time, I’m going to cum all over your pathetic, loser nerdbitch body. No swallowing, you got it?”

Kadelya, still being pushed to her knees took a deep breath, feeling her own arousal spike again. Being forced to do it in front of her monster... her first partner. “Y-y-yes m-mistress,” she forced herself to stutter out.

The mood whiplash struck her briefly as Terra gripped her mane firmly, steering her head to the mouse's will. And even if Terra wasn't that strong physically, Kadelya felt her submissive side piloting her, following Terra like the mouse was an irresistible force holding her, a supermouse to the pathetic dork she called Kadelya. She felt like her mistress was confident now. And as her nose was pressed into the pubic fur, her muzzle forced to the vulva of her mistress, she couldn't help herself.

She purred and picked up where she'd left off before. Licking. Lapping. Kissing. Worshipping the mouse who was so irresistible and powerful that she would let her do anything she wanted, with only a few small exceptions. And she felt herself melting for her Mistress already... with a new love growing for the mouse who hated everything.

Terra stood tall, holding Kadelya's mane firmly, trying to keep her knees strong. She needed to make sure she didn't buckle and look weak in front of this preppy-poseur dweeb. She was still close. Perversely, more so thanks to her fucking negative self talk in the bathroom. She was a loser and didn't deserve any of this, but that's why she was taking it from Kadelya anyway!

"Make me cum, you musk-addicted bitch in heat!" She wasn't sure if it was enough. Or maybe too much. But she had to insult Kadelya. She had to turn some of her negative self talk into demeaning, belittling, insulting names for the catgirl she was loving to conquer. "Make your mistress cum so she can mark you for everybody to see! Make your mistress cum on you in front of your own cluck cuck so it knows how pathetic you are!"

Kadelya felt herself moaning at the insults. It was sick. It was gross. And it was fucking hot as hell. She'd have to remember to try some of these on Sophie... Would it feel as good to talk this way to Sophie? Would Sophie enjoy receiving it? That didn't matter as mistress yanked on her hair. Only mistress's pussy. Licking, probing with her tongue. Teasing the hub at the front of her vulva, losing herself in the action. Then she felt something. Clenching. Writhing.

Terra felt the onset, the start of her orgasm. The clenching muscles, the fluids flowing and pressure building, the pleasure swelling as she neared her limits. "I'm... I'm marking you, princess! AAaaaaahhhhhnnnn!" She felt the floodwall break, the fluids bursting forth, her hand pushing the maned head away so she could squirt her juices over Kadelya's neck, tits, belly, thighs, as much of her body as it could drip down over.

Kadelya was forced to look up at the orgasmic bliss on Terra's face and to feel the warm fluids showering her body. It coated her breast, her belly, her fur soaked by sexual fluids from tits to knees, not completely, but it patches.

And through it all, Galliferno watched without apparent judgment, arousal, or investment of any sort. Chicken eyes don't show emotion in the way mammals can recognize, but knowing they were on her the whole while only made Kadelya squirm more at the marking display.

Fuck it...

It felt so wrong.

It felt so right.

Maybe we're in love tonight...