

Superior Species 3: Adoration

by Austin Springer

Basic Slaving (Kadelya)

“A slave, mistress. I am your slave.” Kadelya felt nothing but truth and heat as she answered.

“That’s right,” Mistress said to her. “You are my slave. And your hypnotized mind always reminds you that you are my slave, and I am your mistress.” Mistress paused for a moment and locked her eyes on Kadelya’s. “And every time you remember that, it makes you feel hot and horny.”

Kadelya nodded. Mistress had already taught her not to speak without a command. She felt a deep pleasure and heat fill her as she looked up at her mistress, every second seeming to remind her more and more that she was a slave and this mousegirl standing above her was her mistress. Mistress had a name... Terra. Mistress Terra had shown Kadelya that this mouse was the Mistress of the kneeling catgirl. She felt her hips squirm, it was so hot to be a slave, to be with her mistress.

Mistress let go of her chin. “Slaves look at the floor when they have no job,” she said. “Look at the floor, at my feet. They’re just as much above you as my face.”

Kadelya nodded slowly, her mind turning over these simple facts. She took a deep breath, as if to speak, but she’d not been told to speak. She lowered her face and stared at Terra’s sneakers. They were only uniform maryjanes, but they seemed powerful now that mistress had told her that the feet in those shoes were better than her, since they were mistress’s feet.

Mistress was quiet for a while. The next thing Kadelya heard was, “Oh fuck! Shit! Kadelya, wake up. I’m going to count from three to one, and when I reach one, you wake up, your surface mind ignoring everything I’ve said, but your hypnotized mind still obeying everything I’ve told you. Answer.”

“I understand, mistress,” Kadelya said, feeling her calm, quiet mind starting to wake up already.

“Three, two, one.” Kadelya heard a sharp snapping sound, then, “And wide awake for me now. Three two one, wide awake.”

Kadelya’s mind was rushing. She looked around the room. Terra was standing by the lecturer’s desk, pulling at it. “Uh, what happened? I... I don’t remember much of what we did, miss..." Kady paused as she thought about what she had almost said, but tried to catch her mistake. "Kelly? Terra?"

"I lost track of time, the school building is closing in fifteen minutes, slave."

Kadelya took a breath and tried to protest being called a slave. She wasn't a slave, slavery was illegal... except even as she tried to think about how to protest, she kind of liked Terra calling her a slave. She also vaguely remembered agreeing to let Terra hypnotize her, or something like that. She pushed herself up and headed over to Terra. "Sorry, let me help you, miss... Terra?" She did it again. She didn't have time to dwell on it.

"Yes, help me get this desk back, slave," Terra said, apparently unconcerned with filtering herself. "You are my slave, right?"

Kadelya's brain almost short circuited as her cheeks flushed with sudden heat. "Uh, slave? I- -" She closed her mouth, feeling the squirming sensation inside. Right. She had agreed to let Terra hypnotize her and do anything. And being made a slave, being made Terra's slave, was the obvious thing to do.

"Never mind, just move the desk. Get that end." Terra was struggling, she must be really worked up. Kadelya helped from the opposite end of the desk, and they were able to get it back to where it was meant to be.

"Fucking hell," Terra said, breathing heavily. "Sorry. I panicked when I saw the time. I... oh wow, that went really well, didn't it? I lost track of the time..."

Kadelya nodded. "I'm sorry, I don't remember much of it. But I think I remember... you hypnotized me, right?"

"Yeah, and it's fine," Terra said, eyeing Kadelya. Her lips curled in a bit of a grimace. "Gawd, we have like ten minutes. Come on, get your things and let's get out before they lock the doors."

"Yes miss... Terra." Kadelya squashed the impulse again, but why did she keep feeling it?

"Good girl," Terra said picking up her backpack, and sliding her metal water flask into the side pocket.

Kadelya blushed at the words, and she felt an inexplicable wave of arousal fill her from near her tummy. "I, uh... are you flirting with me, m... Terra?"

Terra's eyes went wide, and she stared at Kadelya. "I, uh, no. I don't flirt, slave. I own you, don't I?"

Kadelya paused. It was incredibly blunt to say that so plainly. But before she could think to stop herself, her mouth blurted out, "I... I am your slave, mistress." She raised her hands to muzzle herself. "I, yes. I guess you do own me, mistress."

"Yeah, that's what I thought, slave. But... what if I were flirting with you?" Terra opened the door to the lecture room. "You first, cat-slave."

Kadelya let go of her mouth to answer. She tried to think, but started talking too quickly to consider her words. "Well, I have a girlfriend, mistress." She said it again. It felt right, somehow. "But, we're not in a closed relationship. I think I would enjoy if my mistress flirted with her cat-slave, if it pleased you too mistress."

Terra followed Kadelya out of the classroom and breathed a bit heavily for a moment as they headed downstairs. "Would you give your girlfriend to me too?"

Kadelya took a deep breath. "No, I wouldn't, mistress. I agreed to play with you, so you should know I don't do pass through play." She wasn't sure if she'd told Mistress that earlier. She tried to remember the day, but for some reason the whole afternoon since she gave her bag to Sophie was a blur. "Besides, do you even know her name, mistress?"

Concerns (Kadelya)

Kadelya was confused by how certain she was that she actually was Terra's slave, and Terra was her mistress. But she was certain of it, and even after finishing her salmon dinner, it was hard for her to not connect the word 'mistress' with the image of Terra. There was a condescending smirk or smile in that mental image that really drove it home, though she wasn't sure if she'd actually seen that, or just dreamed it.

A message popped up on her phone.

<Is this Kadelya Shadow?> It wasn't a number Kadelya knew, but it wasn't obviously a spam message. Another message appeared. <Sorry. This is Terra Kelly.>

Kadelya's heart fluttered a bit. She typed in a response. <Can you prove it?>

The next messages came in like burst fire in a shoter. <You haven't even said if you are Kadelya.>

<Fuck it.>

<calling, pick up.>

Kadelya looked at the messages. Of course it could be anybody, but to ask for her by name and claim to be mistress Terra... she counted the seconds. Three. Four.

The ringtone of her phone went off. The same number as the text. Should she answer it? A few seconds went by, but she had to know. "Kadelya speaking," she said softly.

"Fuck, thank goodness, I was worried because we didn't exchange numbers at school." Terra's voice was a little dry, creaky, but she seemed happy. They hadn't exchanged numbers at school. How had mistress gotten her number, then? “So, Class Pres, how does it feel to be a slave?”

This time, Kadelya smiled at the word ‘slave.’ It felt good from her Mistress. “I am your slave, mistress Terra. It’s kind of hot. But it’s new, right? I mean, back at lunch...”

“Obviously,” Terra said firmly. “But you’ve wanted to be my slave for a long time. You wanna tell me about it.” It should have been a question, but it didn’t feel like one. It felt to Kadelya like an order.

That made her heart flutter. It was true that she loved Sophie. She had been dating Sophie her for four years, and quite close even before then. But around the same time she met Sophie, she had been focused on the advancement exam to skip over sixth grade. She remembered that a few other students had been taking advancement exams that year, too. Terra was one of them.

They’d been in the seventh period prep class. Together. They were even seated next to each other. That was a different time. Terra smiled back then, once in a while. Oh, she smirked more than she smiled, especially when doing equations or labeling diagrams. But she was cute, and Kadelya had recognized how pretty the mouse was. Like a real life Gadget from that Disney cartoon her dad had put on when she was little...

She didn’t even realize she was spilling all of this to Terra on the call. That she was talking about her schoolgirl crush and how nervous she was about confessing to Terra, because what if Terra didn’t like girls?

She was gushing without thinking, and she knew that she’d wished Terra would take the lead and turn her into a pet kitten...

“Soon,” Terra said, taking an audible deep breath. She had interrupted Kadelya, and the cat blushed as she suddenly knew she had just revealed her old secret crush to her. And her desire to be collared. “At least for the collar. Consider this to be me taking the lead... Tessa, right? That’s what you went by in fifth grade, right Class Pres?” The way she said Class Pres made Kadelya squirm.

“Yeyes, mistress. I went by Tessa until I was 14, the start of 9th grade, remember?”

“Well, honestly I never thought much about people, so I didn’t pay attention to when you changed your name.” Kadelya squirmed. Terra didn’t think much of people, but did remember her using her middle name when they were younger. That meant she must care about Kadelya a bit. “So... You’re my slave now, right?”

Of course. The details were fuzzy, but she felt good whenever Terra called her a slave. “Yes. I am your slave, mistress. What can I do for you, mistress?”

She heard Terra take in a sharp breath. “Well, you’re going to edge. If you’re not in your bedroom, you have until you get there, but no delays. And I want you to send me a message on Eegle every time you reach the edge from now on. Make it clear you've hit the edge." Kadelya squirmed and nodded during the brief pause, her free hand slipping down to start playing. "And every time you hit the edge, before you message me, you need to tell yourself out loud that Mistress Terra keeps you on edge. If you forget to tell yourself that... you need to slap your muzzle. And if you forget to message me... you need to apologize when you do remember."

Kadelya was already starting to purr softly as her fingers stroked the cotton fabric covering her sex. "Yes mistress," she said holding the phone up even though she wanted to play with her breasts while she was rubbing. ""

"Good girl," Terra said, and Kadelya was sure she could hear the possessive smirk in the mouse's voice. "We're going to meet in the lecture hall again tomorrow to talk more and train you more. Every afternoon for the rest of the week. But we'll really get to work on Saturday night when you sleepover with me, okay?"

Kadelya felt the start of a deep moaning in her throat. It mixed with the purring of her contentment, and made her whole body and voice rumble as she responded. "Mmm, yes mistress. I look forward... to spending time with you, mistress."

"And of course, we don't have sex in school. And that includes edging, doesn't it?" Kadelya nodded and then moaned an affirmative response. "But when you get home, you'll need to edge that much more for me since you couldn't do it at all during school. So enjoy every opportunity you have to edge at home, my good girl."

Even as Kadelya felt the unusual pleasure and arousal spike from her mistress praising her, the call ended with a very abrupt, "Good night, slave."

Now Kadelya was left with her thoughts. Confusing thoughts about being Terra's good little hypnotized cat-slave, thoughts of all the time she'd spent unaware of how long she'd wanted this, hiding her crush on Terra even from herself, thoughts of how different things could have been if Terra had claimed her back then. She thought about Sophie, too. Terra hadn't said anything was wrong with her having a girlfriend too, and maybe someday she would be able to convince Sophie to show off, so she could show Terra that she was a good dominant as well as a loyal slave.

Because right now, Kadelya knew things about Sophie that Mistress didn't know.

She knew that Sophie was a naturist. That's why she always looked uncomfortable at school, she didn't like the uniforms. She pushed the fabric of her panties aside, one finger gently prizing her pussy lips apart to stroke the folds. Her murring deepened, and she could feel her nipples getting hard under the t-shirt and sports bra she'd worn for her workout and meditation before dinner.

She knew that Sophie loved hypnosis just as much as Kadelya did, and was a very good subject. Her thumb flicked the little nub at the front of her pussy and it felt like a jolt on electric inspiration. Because Sophie might be an even better subject than weak-minded switchy sub Kadelya, who had dominant urges in her. Sophie only wanted to serve.

She knew how much Sophie wanted to make other people feel good. She knew that Sophie would happily be anybody's slave... but Kadelya felt resistance in her heart still. Was it her dominant side, trying to hold on to ownership of the girl she'd been hypnotizing for the last four years? Was it misplaced love that was owed to mistress before anybody else? Was it just the comfort of knowing that she could make Sophie melt, physically and mentally, better than her Mistress?

Kadelya decided that what she needed right now was a bath where she could really edge her worries away for mistress.

Planning Session (Terra)

Six years ago. She didn't think about the past that much, but she did remember the ass-brained advancement test. She had been seated next to Tessa back then, when Tessa had long hair. Strawberry blonde mane and eyes like the lawn in the botanical gardens. She hadn't had highlights back then. Terra was precocious and she knew Tessa was cute. A total princess type, who she would have thought an airhead if she weren't in the advancement exam class.

Had she ever thought of enslaving her back then? Terra grunted, the past didn't really matter on her side, unless she could use it to her advantage. At twelve, she'd still just been a prototype of herself today. Dabbling into everything, memorizing all sorts of diagrams because she could only visualize things she'd seen before because of her fucking aphantasia.

Rocks, stones, machines, insects -- oh her memory was great if she had seen something before. But apparently her brain was hecking useless at imagining anything she hadn't seen precisely. So she devoured any source of knowledge she could, trying to fix herself back then.

She took the advancement exam because she was in the "old" half of her grade and felt held back. She'd also gone through every book in the grade school library, so she wanted to gain access to the more advanced libraries. in junior high. She wanted to get out of the grade school. She should have taken another advancement exam to skip ninth grade. Then she wouldn't be in this whole valedictorian mess.

And it didn't matter that she'd had the hots for Tessa six years ago. What mattered was that she was committed to enslaving and breaking the princess now.

That meant that Terra was going to start lying her ass off, and those lies had to make a story that Kadelya believed easily enough to replace the truth. She had her IDE open and started writing suggestions, commands, stories, lies to tell her new slave to try and break her to the point that the “rules” she’d tried to make Terra accept were something the new, brainwashed ‘true’ version of her cat-slave would never have thought up or wanted to apply.

Terra didn’t like when other people gave her rules. Run a mile in gym class? Fuck off, Miss Teller. She didn’t need to run, she had a scooter if she needed to get anywhere the busses didn’t go. Put more comments in your code? Fuck off Mr. Gardner. Stop telling your teachers to fuck off? Fuck off Principal Reyes.

She didn’t need their rules, and as soon as she graduated, she was going to teach them all their proper place. Shadow was her final experiment, and Brown would be her masterpiece before she started taking over everybody who had tried to make her obey pointless arbitrary rules.

And to make that happen, she had three things left to test.

First: The bracelets. Innocuous devices she could carry around and apply at will. Nothing suspicious, and she’d just need to make sure she returned to her victims after an hour or so. She hadn’t figured out how to speed them up any more than that. And they wouldn’t really do anything obvious until she came close with the remote.

Second: The neuralyzer. An electromagnetic coil that would instantly, or at least quickly, disrupt brainwave activity inside of it. After a second or two, it could be turned off and leave the brain malleable, like a very deep hypnotic trance state. In theory, she reminded herself, because she couldn’t test it on herself. Speaking accurately, she had, and had literally no recollection of the hour she’d been out, except that nothing had happened except for her blacking out while her breathing slowed and her body didn’t move until the machine powered itself down. She’d improved the insulation on it since that test, but she was pretty sure her brain would fight her own suggestions as much as it did anybody else’s rules.

Third: Proving that she could break someone as much as the porn manga and hentai and mc stories she spent all her time building ideas from. Figuring out how to shatter someone so much their mind was like putty to her voice all the time, until they’d never know the difference between real life and whatever she told them.

The last was what she wanted from Kadelya. But she’d happily test the other two on her in the process. Fuck, she needed to work out this plan.

So, she looked over her plot file. From what Kadelya had said on their call, she might have had a crush on Terra back then, so making sure she still had a crush on her was an easy start. She’d invited Terra to a lot of things over the years, but it always seemed like polite inclusion bullshit, not really like she cared. After all, everybody got invited to those beach parties and bonfires and birthdays.

Would it be better to try to just build up an enslavement, or should she try messing with Kadelya’s memories? If there was a crush, she could probably take advantage of that.

Convince her that she'd been enslaved after the exam, before she went to Japan? Convince her she hadn't gone to Japan at all? No... she wanted to know more about that trip to Japan. Maybe she could convince Kadelya she'd been on the trip after hearing some stories about it. Writing, after all, was something Terra could do.

Brown, no, "Sophie." She had to remember that name, even if she wasn't going to let on that she'd already fucked with Kadelya's memory to get information like that. It was testing, though, and as far as she knew, it had worked. Sophie had transferred into seventh grade at exactly the time Kadelya had come back from six fucking months in Japan. And the two were clearly already flirting with each other from day one. While the accent was less pronounced, everybody thought her British accent was sooo adorable. Of course, Terra didn't mind the accent. It was the instant popularity that ticked her off. Teachers telling her she should be more like Brown and Shadow, make some friends.

She growled and looked away from the screen. "I don't want friends, I don't need friends," she muttered. "What good would friends do me when I can make slaves?" She shook her head and closed her eyes tightly. Little glowing, and fading, blobs drifted across her eyelids, but that was just because her monitor was so hecking bright. She could remember anything she saw. But she couldn't visualize. Why was her brain broken like this?

She took a moment to breathe deep, to center and focus her thoughts where she wanted them, not on some stupid flashback origin story or future plot for Sophie Brown. She wanted to plan her conquest of Kadelya Shadow's mind to the point she could change whatever else she wanted later. "Right," she muttered, looking back to her monitor. She reviewed what she had already typed in, making a few small notes on a timeline -- a timeline that was partially relying on what she could find out on Saturday night.

What else? Kadelya was presumptuous enough to try and give her rules. That meant Terra had to put her in her place for that. The cat was going to lose any charms she might have had before, except for looks right now. Terra didn't want anybody else trying to steal her pussycat toy even if she was still hot. She should give the cat a few hypnotically programmed alterations to make her more personalized. With the right suggestions, Terra could screw with how her eyesight got interpreted unless she wore a special pair of thick glasses. She would give the catslave a lisp. No, not just a lisp. A full-blown speech pathology for Terra's adorkable cat. Gunpla obsession, too.

Personality type... Tsundere? No, she didn't want any lip from the cat.

M-dere? No, she'd make Sophie into an M-dere. Maybe she could make Kadelya S-dere towards the fox. That could be fun, but not at all right for her attitude to Terra.

Hajidere? kijidere? The former would be a good blushy slave who would never turn her down. Or should she use the cool sociable mask that would echo Kadelya's original self?

She didn't have to choose now, she guessed, but building up a proper personality would take time and planning... but she should definitely start on the affectionate side. And maybe she'd put just a bit of a humiliation fetish in anyway... a reminder that as good as it was to be a slave, it was embarrassing too. After all, a good dork pussy doll deserved to feel at least as ashamed of what she was as she did proud of serving her owner.

Species play. That was Terra's kink, but she decided there was no point being subtle about it. Terra already had all sorts of insults and demeaning things to say about every other species she'd met, and quite a few she hadn't. And now she had the chance to make someone else believe all of them and worship her on a pedestal... She was definitely going to teach the formerly fortunate feline to believe all the same things about Terra -- and about herself -- that Terra already believed. That might take a bit of time, though -- she didn't have magic or nanites or some magic computer program like in the stories, she'd have to properly abuse her beliefs into Kadelya with the personal touch.

Terra realized that she was getting worked up as she made her notes, and decided that maybe it was time to enjoy herself for a bit. Saving her notes, she pulled up some doujinshi and started to take care of herself for the night.